Real-time Online Professional Sharing on 3 March 2020
Suspending classes without suspending learning:
Planning, practices and problems

In response to the epidemic outbreak of COVID-19, the Education Bureau has deferred the resumption of classes until late April. How can we help our students keep learning during school suspension and encourage them to become Self-regulated learners? What do school leaders need to consider to bring about a holistic plan for teaching and learning during this challenging period? Are there any practical considerations for the implementation of live-streamed lessons?

In order to promote the exchanges among school principals and teachers, the SRL Task Force has invited Miss Veronica Yau and her teachers from Fanling Kau Yan College to share their valuable experiences with us. The sharing session will touch on:

1. School Administration and Teachers' training;
2. Core Learning Platform;
3. Supporting Platforms and Apps;
4. Live-streamed Lessons; and
5. Common problems and possible strategies.
